WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

- The Fund is primarily allocated to US Treasury holdings and achieves its equity exposure through long-dated call options. In a rising equity market, the Fund tends to appreciate but underperform the equity benchmark. This was the case over the Period. In a falling equity market, the equity exposure through long-dated call options can limit the losses relative to the equity benchmark.
- The long-dated call options returned 204.20% for the period while the Treasuries returned 11.83%. The performance numbers reflect their total return during the period.
